General Sarraill Preparing
For Drive Up the Vardar Valley.

Developments of some importance, apparently, are impending on the Macedonian front, following the recent clarification of the military situation in Greece coincident with the abdication of King Constantine. The most pronounced movement is a withdrawal by the position without pressure of their advance position established some distance east of the Struma river on the extreme eastern end of the front. Several towns have been evacuated by them and occupied by the Bulgarians. Simultaneously comes news of pronounced reconnoitering activity by Entente forces in other parts of the front notably along the Vardar in the central sector.

It has been frequently pointed out by military observers that virtually the only practicable route for a successful advance to cut the lines of the Central powers in the Balkans and reclaim Serbia is up the Vardar valley along the railroad line there.

The present activities while they have not developed far enough to make the thing certain none the less point to the possibility that an offensive by Gen. Sarraill in the only likely sector, that embracing the Vardar area, is eminent.

Both the Russian army and Russian navy are giving more evidence of aggressive intent. Recent German and Austrian statements have instanced increasing activity by Russian military forces in several sectors notably Volynia and Galicia where the great Brusiloff offensive was in full swing at this time a year ago.

The Russian naval arm also has been so strongly in evidence in Baltic waters that Berlin announces it has been found necessary to carry out extensive air raiding operations on Russian bases in this area.

In the Arras battle area the British were subjected to heavy counter attack this morning on new position they won last Thursday east of Monchy-le-preux. They held onto the main point, the important infantry hill but had to fall back from some positions they had established further in advance.

City Hall Notes

Fire autos also go the way of the worn out and aged fire horses. The old fire horses when through were always sold or given to farmers who used them for the few remaining years to do little work on farms and dairies in return for the board the farmer gave them. Now autos go the same way. The Stoddard-Dayton of Fire Chief Watkins was sold Saturday to be used in farm work, to bring milk to Fairmont each morning and to return in the evening.

The city police are having it easy these nights with the soldiers who no longer have great fun with civilians about the city. The machine gun company of Mobilization camp sends in a detail each night of fine specimens of soldiers. These soldiers have been keeping the city quiet.

FIRST BAPTISTS
REVIEW GROWTH OF TWENTY YEARS

Anniversary of Rev. Dr. Eddy,
the Pastor, Fittingly Celebrated.

MESSAGE FROM THE F. M. A.

Large Congregation Extended
Congratulations
After the Services.

The twentieth anniversary of the pastorate of Rev. W. J. Eddy pastor of the First Baptist church of this city, was fittingly celebrated yesterday morning when appropriate services were held at the regular morning church service.

Dr. Eddy preached a splendid and inspiring sermon from the subject "Sacrifice," and from this subject drew many lessons, a number of which centered around the outcome of the great world conflict of nations.

Preceding the sermon C. O. Henry, M. D., read resolutions from the Ministerial association of the church on the celebration of Dr. Eddy's twentieth anniversary and in extending felicitations to Rev. Dr. Eddy. M. E. Lough in behalf of the Board of Deacons of the church, read a paper eulogistic of the twenty years of Rev. Eddy's pastorate. This paper brought out the facts that in the twenty years of Rev. Eddy's pastorate the church has grown from a membership of 121 to 560. During the twenty years 1,000 have been received into the church. Between 600 and 700 couples have been married during the twenty years and almost 500 funeral sermons preached.

The church which at the beginning of Dr. Eddy's pastorate occupied the auditorium and a small lecture room to the rear of the auditorium now occupies a finished basement and a large two-story annex to the rear of the pulpit and the quarters are now entirely inadequate for the needs of the rapidly growing congregation and Sabbath school.

The Fairmont charge is the only pastorate ever held by Rev. Eddy, he having come here at the completion of his theological education at Newton Theological seminary at Boston. In his remarks yesterday he stated that while he might preach for another congregation for a number of years he could never be in reality a pastor to a congregation with the exception of the congregation of the First Baptist church of Fairmont owing to the fact that the best part of his life had been lived right among this people he had seen the children of the congregation grow from babies to young men and women and that his interest and indeed his life was bound up in this city and his church.

During the years of his pastorate here he has seen the church grow from a small body to one of the influential churches of the city. One pastor in extending congratulations to Dr. Eddy through a member of the Baptist church took occasion to make the statement that Dr. Eddy had done more to bring about a Christian fellowship among the church people of the city than any one person in the city.

At the conclusion of the services the congregation of the church as well as many visitors crowded around the pastor to extend congratulations and best wishes.

Other interesting features of the service yesterday were two solos sung by Jackson Clyde Kinsey, of New York, whose singing is always greatly appreciated in this city. Mr. Kinsey who possesses a splendid baritone voice, was at his best yesterday and delighted his hearers with the rendition of two difficult sacred solos.

The following was the message from the Ministerial association as read by Dr. C. O. Henry:

To the Pastor and Congregation of the First Baptist church, Fairmont: Dearly Beloved—On this the "Twenty-fifth anniversary" of your active relationship as pastor and congregation, I desire, as president of the Ministerial association of Fairmont as well as on my own behalf as one of the local pastors, to extend to you the congregation of the ministers and churches of Fairmont. You have established in this city a record worthy of emulation. In these days of many and unlooked for changes your example of constancy is indeed refreshing. I imagine that back of it all is the faithfulness of the pastor and the long suffering of the congregation. May your combination in this regard soon obtain in all the churches of Fairmont. Earnest praying for God's richest blessing on you this day, I remain, fraternally, J. C. Broomfield, President Ministerial Association.

sociation and pastor of the Methodist Protestant Temple.

The following eulogistic paper was read by M. C. Lough as a representative from the deacon board of the church: Capital and hears about it. He has Twenty years! How fleeting when they have passed; how long they seem when contemplating the future. Looking back over a period of years is like casting the eye to the valley below after a long and weary struggle to the hill top. We wonder how it took so long to climb the hill when the distance to the valley appears so short. Looking backward and forward over a period of time is like looking through the small end and large end of a telescope. Looking through the small end the distance is enlarged and the distance minimized; looking through the large end the distance is immeasurably increased and the object very greatly diminished. Today as we look back over the twenty years since our pastor came among us we seem to be looking the short way for the time seems very brief. Yet, when viewed from another angle the distance back stretches out tremendously. I said, just now, "When our pastor came among us," but strictly speaking there were not very many of "us" here when he came. The writer and the pastor are almost twins in point of time of our connection with this church, the pastor having come in June and the writer in September, 1897. At that time there were 121 members belonging to the First Baptist church. The church was hardly out of its swaddling clothes. The auditorium and library room took care of the church, Sunday school, B. Y. P. U., Ladies' Aid and every other organization meeting. Today we occupy these rooms, the large basement rooms and the spacious addition next to the parsonage and if the congregation would get busy and come half way up to our possibilities we would be greatly cramped for space.

We could say many things along this line, things which you all know and which have been referred to often but this time forbids going into detail on statistics. We have a different purpose in this brief paper, that of expressing our appreciation of the faithful and whole souled service given to the church and the community during the twenty years which Rev. Eddy has served as pastor of this congregation. When we look upon our junior congregation and realize that all these boys and girls and young men and young women have been born into the world since Rev. Eddy became pastor of this church we can have some appreciation of the period he has been our spiritual counselor and guide. Rev. Eddy has shared with us both our sorrows and our pleasures. He has been at our homes when the wedding march was sounded and all were merry and glad; he has been with us in the sad hour of bereavement, giving comfort in our time of trouble. In fact very few of us realize just what his work and life has been to every family in the congregation and it was to emphasize his constant pastoral oversight that the Deacon Board asked to have a paper prepared expressing as best it could be in a brief way the high esteem in which Rev. Eddy is held and the appreciation of his devotion to the work with the congregation. We can not close this feeble attempt at expressing our appreciation of Rev. Eddy's labors among us without also voicing our love and admiration for his estimable wife. Her life has been an open book for us all to read and we feel that her influence has always been of the very highest and best in every department of the spiritual and social life of the church. We might also add in closing that the influence of Rev. and Mrs. Eddy has not been confined to the congregation of the First Baptist church. Their work has been broad and liberal; their policy has been such as to win the confidence of the people of all denominations, and we believe we state what is generally recognized as true that no other pastor and his wife are held in higher esteem by the people in general in Fairmont than are Rev. and Mrs. Eddy.

We congratulate them and the congregation on this twentieth anniversary of Rev. Eddy's pastorate and hope that his remarkable service in the church whether it be long or short may be just as productive of good to the church and community as it has been during the twenty years which have this day been brought to a close.
